DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections – 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

1. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Leman et al (US 5,127,844), in view of Etue (US 6,062,518).
2. In regards to claim 1, Leman discloses a cellular phone cradle device (connection block) for receiving a cellular phone and for detachably connecting said device to a plug-in receptacle (cigarette lighter outlet) on a dashboard or console of a vehicle, comprising: a base cradle member (connection block) having a receiving compartment (latch claws 2) for receiving a cellular phone; said base cradle member having interfacing electrical ports (cable 1) for connecting to the electrical ports of the cellular phone; a plug-in adapter (plug-in adapter 9) for detachably connecting said base cradle member to a plug-in receptacle of a vehicle for providing power to said base cradle member; said plug-in adapter having an interior electrical port (Fig. 1, Fig. 2, and Fig. 3); a hollow and flexible extension coupling having an internal channel for receiving at least one electrical connector wire extending therethrough for electrical connection to said electrical ports of said base interior electrical connector port of said plug-in adapter and for electrical connection to said base cradle member (Fig. 1, Fig. 2, and Fig. 3). Leman, however, does not disclose said flexible extension coupling including a first end connected to said base cradle member and a second end connected to said plug-in adapter; and said flexible extension coupling including adjusting means having a memory for resetting said coupling into multiple positions which are maintained until the user changes and resets the position of said coupling in order to adjust the position of said cellular phone cradle device according to the position desired by the user in using the cellular phone in a hands-free operation. Etue, however, does disclose said flexible extension coupling including a first end connected to said base cradle member and a second end connected to said plug-in adapter; and said flexible extension coupling including adjusting means having a memory for resetting said coupling into multiple positions which are maintained until the user changes and resets the position of said coupling in order to adjust the position of said cellular phone cradle device according to the position desired by the user in using the cellular phone in a hands-free operation (col. 2 lines 11-21 and col. 4 lines 24-35). Therefore, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to employ the device with adjusting means and multiple positions as a way of positioning the cellular phone in a convenient position for use by the driver while operating the vehicle. Thus making the cellular phone easily reachable, causing less hazard.

3. In regards to claims 2, 3, 4, and 5, Etue discloses a cellular phone cradle device, wherein said adjusting means for providing multiple positions includes an outer spine having memory for setting and maintaining a specific position of said flexible extension coupling relative to said base cradle member until it is changed by the user (Fig. 2, col. 2 lines 11-21, and col. 4 lines 24-35).

4. In regards to claim 6, Etue discloses a cellular phone cradle device, wherein said first end of said flexible extension coupling includes a first snap-in connector member, and said second end of said flexible extension coupling includes a second snap-in connector member (Fig. 2, col. 3 lines 12-31, and col. 3-4 lines 66-12).

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Van Order et al (US 6,227,505) teach an adjustable accessory mount.
